HUNDRED FIFTY MEMBERS
ATTEND ELKS' OUTING

Over one hundred and fifty members attended the outing of the Arlington Lodge of Elks Wednesday at Martin Luther Grove. Besides the food, there were several athletic events enjoyed, but no official record was taken of the results. The married men defeated the bachelors at baseball, however. It was a tight game and finally ended 12 to 9. There probably were ten different pitchers used on each team, but Eddie Buckley started in the box for the single men and John Quigley pitched for the bachelors. Mike Kosha and Joe Thompson were credited with home runs. There were also some exciting foot races, but no records were broken in spite of the class of the field. In charge of the outing were Thomas S. Duggan, chairman; Arthur E. Crowell, secretary; Frank Zemler, treasurer.

Ed—Why don't you like girls?
Tim—They're too biased.
Ed—Biased?
Tim—Yes bias this, and bias that, until I'm broke.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING
CALLED FOR JULY 15th

A special Town Meeting has been called by the Board of Selectmen for the fifteenth of July. The warrant for this closes Monday evening, June 30th, when the Selectmen will draw up the warrant. This is the meeting, a request for which was included in the vote "No" on the referendum on the school appropriation. It is expected that the chief business of the meeting will be to decide what shall be done with regard to the addition to the Senior High School, the appropriation for which was refused by the referendum.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK A. NOYES
PASS 56th ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alton Noyes of 17 Paul Reverer road passed their 56th wedding anniversary on Tuesday. The day was a quiet one as Mrs. Noyes has been in poor health for more than a year. Mr. and Mrs. Noyes have made their home in the Heights section for more than twenty-five years. Their daughter, Mrs. William C. Drouet, lives at 56 Florence avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Noyes were married in Somerville on June 24, 1874. Mrs. Noyes, before her marriage, was Anna R. Mason. Both Mr. and Mrs. Noyes have been active in many branches of the Masonic and Odd Fellows' orders. Mr. Noyes is a past grand patron of the Massachusetts Order of the Eastern Star. He is still actively engaged in business, being a member of the grain firm of Noyes & Colby, 177 Milk street, Boston. This firm six years ago marked its 50th anniversary. He is a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Noyes is a former president of the Arlington Heights Study Club.

JAMES KILKIS OF SOMERVILLE
DROWNED IN SPY POND

The first drowning tragedy of the season to be credited against Spy Pond occurred Wednesday. Seven-year-old James Kilakis of 128 Albion street, Somerville, was the victim. He had come to Arlington with James Jaquith and his two small sons. Mr. Jaquith is a neighbor of the drowned boy's parents.

The youngster probably waded beyond his depth or stepped into a hole and sank without a sound, for he was not missed by his companions for some time. Finally, however, the alarm was given and the police were called. Sergeant Charles E. Carroll and Officers William Scanlon and Thomas White grappled for the body from a boat for more than thirty minutes before it was located.

Artificial resuscitation was tried both at the shore and again at the Symmes Arlington Hospital, but all efforts were without success. The boy's body was then removed to the home of his parents.

—Mr. and Mrs. Percy Harling of Westmoreland avenue are visiting relatives in Maine.

PASTOR OF FIRST
METHODIST CHURCH
PASSES AWAY

Residents of the Heights section were saddened by the death Wednesday morning at his home, 2 Crescent Hill avenue, of the pastor of the First Methodist church, Rev. George W. Jones, D. D., following an illness of more than a month. Dr. Jones came to the Heights a little over a year ago and during that time had won the affection and esteem of his parishioners. He was well known in Methodist Episcopal circles, both in this state and in New Hampshire.

He was born in St. John, New Brunswick, 55 years ago. He studied for the ministry at Northwestern University, in Chicago, and later received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the Boston University school of theology. He had held pastorates in Newton Highlands, Newton Lower Falls, East Saugus, Norwood and Broadway Methodist Episcopal church, Winter Hill, Somerville. From the Somerville church he was appointed pastor of the Heights church. He is survived by his widow.

The funeral services will be held at his church this afternoon at half past one. They will be in charge of the District Superintendent, Rev. C. C. P. Hillier, D. D., who will be assisted by various ministers of the district. The members of the Arlington Ministers' Association will attend and will take part in the service. The body will be taken to Amesbury for burial in Mt. Prospect cemetery, where a committal service will be held at half past four.

MISS GERTRUDE FRAME SAVES GIRL FROM DROWNING

Miss Gertrude Frame of 99 Claremont avenue performed a heroic act at Belmont Park Wednesday in saving another girl from drowning. The girl was unable to swim and had somehow gone beyond her depth. She was nearly unconscious when Miss Frame reached her and carried her to shore and safety. If it had not been for prompt and efficient action on the part of the rescuer, the near victim would surely have drowned.

Miss Frame will go to the White Mountains for the vacation season on Sunday. She expects to complete her course in life-saving which has been so auspiciously begun with study, practice and at least one practical application.

ARLINGTON BOY WINS
MT. HERMON SCHOLARSHIP

Robert Bingham Manning of 25 Claremont avenue, has received the unusual distinction of winning the Gould Scholarship at Mt. Hermon Preparatory School for boys in East Northfield. During his past two years at Mt. Hermon, Robert has had an excellent scholastic record and this last year in the opinion of the deans he is the boy most deserving of the scholarship. After the summer vacation, Robert will return to Mt. Hermon and continue his studies as a member of the Junior Class.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR
ADDITION TO LIBRARY

The contract for the addition to the Robbins Library has been awarded by the Building Committee to Joseph S. Greenwood, who starts work this week. Mr. Greenwood's work is known to Arlington people as he built both the Parmenter and Locke schools.

The addition will include a children's room, a large work room, quarters for the library staff and a recreation room in the basement. The only portion of the main building that will need to be disturbed because of the addition is the office of the librarian, Mrs. Spofford. This will be used as a corridor to the addition and a door will be cut where the window now is.

The plans for improvements include, however, some needed changes in the main building. A new heating plant and new lighting fixtures will be installed. There will be some changes in the stacks and the bridge which runs from the children's room to the stackroom will be taken down. This will give more light to the main floor. The main desk will be domed over. This is done primarily to make the heating of the library easier but it is expected that it will also result in noises on the floor above being less audible on the main floor.

It is expected that it will be possible to keep the library open all summer in spite of this work. It may be necessary to move the children's books downstairs for a time but this will not prevent the children using them. The library staff hope to be able to move into the new addition in the fall as the need for it grows daily more acute.

ARLINGTON KIWANIS
FOUND WOBURN CHAPTER

The Woburn Kiwanis Club, which the Arlington club has been busy founding was sent on its way alone Tuesday, with the formal presentation of the charter. Albert W. Wunderly of Lincoln street, the prime mover in organizing the new club, was toastmaster, and Walter T. Chamberlain, president of the local club, presented a beautiful silk U. S. flag.

Incidentally, the presentation of the flag was rather unique. The "Spirit of '76" was lifted from the Arlington Musical Festival, and the same three who took part in that celebration assisted in the presentation by escorting the flag into the hall. In the "Spirit of '76" were Frederick Parker, Copeland MacAllister and Parker Wood. F. P. Hawkes carried the flag. John N. Loud led the singing.

The local club met as usual yesterday noon in the Middlesex Sportsman's Association clubhouse. There was no speaker; so the time was consumed in singing, the levying of petty fines and a general good time.

At five-thirty this morning Phoebe G. Bolduc of Burlington, Mass., ran into a hydrant at the corner of Park avenue north and Summer street, causing damage to both the hydrant and the car.

Wednesday evening Mrs. George W. Yale of Jason terrace gave a get-together Dutch Supper for the entire cast and director of the last Friends of the Drama production, "Skidding". Being a talented group, each member was required to put on a little stunt after supper, much to the enjoyment and amusement of the rest of the cast.

Among the skits were readings by Mrs. Miriam Hendrick Cahalin and Mrs. David A. Wilcox. Mrs. Wilcox was also presented with a gift by the rest of the cast for her hospitality in holding most of the rehearsals for "Skidding" at her home.

Alfred C. Cobb is seventy years old now, after thirty-six years of service in Arlington schools as a teacher of manual training, is compelled by law to retire. The pupils in the building of Junior High Center, therefore, will not see his familiar countenance in the manual training room next fall as they have for more than two generations.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Cobb says that he does not wish to retire, for he is perfectly capable of carrying on his duties for several years more. But the law is the law. He could have retired at sixty years of age according to the same law, but he did not wish to do so then any more than he wishes to now.

"I am going to miss this place," said Mr. Cobb, looking around the manual training shop. "Not only have I spent most of my life teaching here, but I have spent a great deal of my spare time tinkering at odd jobs right in this same room. I will not know what to do with myself next fall. It would be perfectly possible for me to retire comfortably on my deferred compensation (we teachers prefer to call it that rather than pension), but I feel that I need more work as well as a little more money. It is in my mind now to open a little furniture repairing shop in the fall."

When the Advocate reporter asked Mr. Cobb if any of his charges in the past could now be numbered among our great men, he said that he could not recall any. He knew that there must be some, but he was unable to think of one off-hand. Later he did mention some of the prominent men now in town whom he had taught to use a saw and hammer when they were in high school. Among them were William Elwell, Horatio A. Phinney, Trafford Hicks, William O. Partridge, Clarence Parsons, Oscar Schnitzer, Walter Chamberlain and John Hendrick. He also mentioned several well known citizens who were in school at about the same time, although not actually in his classes. Judge John G. Brackett was among these.

A Gift from the Boys

On the last day of school which was last Friday, some of the boys in his classes, led by Chandler M. Lewis, got together and raised five dollars to give to their beloved instructor. The envelope in which the money was placed stated, "From the boys of the seventh grade—for all the trouble we have caused you."

Mr. Cobb said that if one wanted to be very literal, his time for retirement had not come at all. His birthday happens to fall on the twenty-ninth of February; so he has really had 16 birthdays. He would have had seventeen were it not for the fact that every ninety-nine years the leap years are eight years apart instead of four. He thought of telling the state department that he had had only sixteen birthdays, but he feared that he could not pass as a youngster.

Mr. Cobb was born in Brunswick, Maine. He attended the public schools of that town which at the time boasted of about six thousand population. He graduated from Bowdoin College in 1884 with an A. B. degree. While there he became a member of Zeta Psi fraternity. He took no active part in athletics, although he rather liked to play baseball now and again. His real interest lay in his studies. This resulted in marks which made it possible for him to say that he could remember no mark which was lower than eighty.

After his graduation from Bowdoin, he spent four years working for Uncle Sam in the Brunswick post office, two of those years as assistant postmaster. Since his bent was working with his hands he followed mechanical pursuits for a time after resigning from the post office department, and in 1890 he was given a position in the Boston shops of the Fitchburg Railroad.

While he was working in Boston, Mr. Cobb and his wife made their home in Waltham. It was in his spare time that he started to study the method of teaching manual training used in the public schools of that city. He was called to Arlington in 1894 upon the completion of the high school building on Academy street—now Junior High Center. When he first started teaching here he was on a part time basis, teaching also in Belmont, Weston, Fairhaven, Andover and Dedham successively.

Mr. Cobb has taught in the same room of the same building for thirty-six years. He has taught under six different superintendents and six principals and has seen hundreds

MEDFORD PAGEANT AN ELABORATE AFFAIR

There are twelve hundred in the cast in the Settlement of Medford Pageant, which will be repeated next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 8.30 p. m. The "Pageant of the Mystic" is an elaborate outdoor portrayal of the historical and commercial development of Medford, even to the digging of the Middlesex Canal, launching a ship, presumably in the Mystic River and running a full size reproduction of the first passenger train in New England, as if over the rails of the Boston & Lowell Railroad.

Episode 1 includes five scenes of the colonization. No. 2 depicts many phases of colonial life in 1700, the 3rd portrays six scenes of the American Revolution, the 4th episode gives five scenes of the commercial development of Medford along the shores of Old "Mystick" and in the finale, an epilogue, Medford witnesses the gathering of her patriot sons and her later citizens. The bearers were Lawrence Harrington, William Reedy and the two sons-in-law of the deceased, J. Lynch and H. K. Plummer.

Mrs. Meehan, who was in her fifty-sixth year, died on June 22nd. She was born in England, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones. Besides her husband, she is survived by six children—Mrs. J. Lynch of Weymouth, Mrs. H. K. Plummer of Brooks avenue, Thaddeus Meehan of Winthrop and Catherine, James and Francis, who live with their parents.

MRS. PAUL J. LADD

Annie Isabelle, the wife of Paul J. Ladd of 34 Teel street, passed away on the 20th of June, in her thirty-fourth year. She was born in Cambridge, the daughter of Robie Downie and Howard D. Longmire. Funeral services were held Sunday from her late home and were followed by interment in the Cambridge Cemetery.

MRS. ANNIE G. ALTERTON

Mrs. Annie G. Alterton, the widow of William F. Alterton, passed away on the 20th of June at 194 Park avenue, where she had been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Helen G. Currie, for the past nine months. She died on her eighty-second birthday.

Mrs. Alterton was born in Woodstock, N. B., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Jackson, and had lived there all her life, though for the past twenty years she had spent much time in Boston, where her other daughter, Miss L. Pearl Alterton, is secretary to Dr. Wright, and in Arlington. While living in Upper Woodstock, Mrs. Alterton made her home with her brother, David W. Jackson, who survives her.

MISS FRAZER'S PUPILS GIVE DELIGHTFUL CARNIVAL

The dancing carnival, given recently in Robbins Memorial Town Hall by the pupils of Miss Marie Josephine Frazer of 16 Webster street, was a delightful affair. The children danced charmingly. The program opened with "My New Dress—Shh, Don't Tell Mother," by Dorothy Corbett, Evelyn Barry, Dorothy Norton, Pauline Connor and Marguerite Kenney.

Other children who appeared were Marion Sammon, Pauline Hubbard, Ruth and Lorna Grant, Virginia Gavin, Peggy Brink, Frances Westowski, Ann Horrigan, Evelyn Sarkisian, Mary Sweeney, Dorothy Maxham, Jean Long, Dorothy Frazer, Elaine O'Brien, Virginia Shallow, Alice MacKenna and Charles Brink. Langley's Orchestra played for the general dancing which followed the recital.

TOWN TOPICS

—Mrs. Allen Simblest and her children of 37 Chandler street have gone to Littleton for the summer.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Guernsey and family, of Gray street, are at Cayuga Lake, Seneca Falls, N. Y., for the summer months.

—The map in the Board of Health office shows fewer contagious diseases than for some time past.

Modernizing means increased valuation, often far in excess of money spent.

If your home is in need of repairs, consider the possibilities of remodeling; the cost will be only slightly more.

An Old House "Gone Modern"

How does your house "stack up" with that new house just finished across the street? Does it make your house look a bit out of date?

It is an easy and inexpensive matter to bring your home up-to-date. The job need not be an extensive one. Frequently the addition of a sun-room or porch; the changing of entrance or windows; new sidewalls or a roof put on right over the old one will be enough to obtain the desired appearance. In the interior, new floors, relocation of stairway, modern doors or new trim may be all that is required.

Come in and discuss the matter with us, or a phone call will bring a competent representative, who will gladly offer suggestions. No obligation, of course.

MR. AND MRS. AVERILL PASS SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Averill of 41 Wollaston avenue observed their sixtieth wedding anniversary on Monday. Their daughters, Mrs. George A. G. Wood of 119 Hillside avenue, and Mrs. William P. Hadley of Billerica, had arranged a surprise trip. The four, with Mr. Wood, drove to Marblehead and had dinner at "The Fo'castle" and then went on to Gloucester and Rockport. The day was a happy one as both Mr. and Mrs. Averill are in good health and the weather smiled on them.

Mr. and Mrs. Averill head a group of four generations. Besides their daughters, they have a son, George W. Averill of Long Beach, California, four grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Averill were married in the home of the bride in Boston on June 23, 1870, by the late Rev. Edward Everett Hale. They moved to the Heights a few years after their marriage and have since resided there. Mr. Averill was born in Boston on October 11, 1848, and Mrs. Averill is a native of Bellows Falls, Vt., where she was born on Aug. 11, 1849.

Mr. Averill is a veteran of the Civil War. He is the youngest member of the Francis Gould Post, No. 36, G. A. R., and is at present its commander. Mrs. Averill was for many years active in the affairs of the Park Avenue Congregational church, where she served as president of the Women's Guild. She has also been president of the Woman's Relief Corps, No. 43, and is a member of the Washington Elm Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mr. and Mrs. Averill spent the winter in Florida. They will be at their Wollaston avenue home this summer. It is a good summer place, they say.

DENTAL CLINIC CLOSED FOR THE SUMMER MONTHS

The Dental Clinic, which is conducted in Robbins Memorial Town Hall for children under five and for those attending the grade schools, has closed for the summer months. It will reopen on the day that school opens.

This has been the biggest year that the clinic has ever had. While last year one hundred and ninety-six children had all of the work that they needed done, this year three hundred were sent away with "clean mouths". Forty-four of the patients were under five years old. The clinic, according to Miss Helen Heffernan, the nurse, is especially anxious to have children under five visit the clinic as Dr. McKay, the dentist considers the work done on the first teeth especially important as preventing future ill. The youngest patient, who was fifteen months old, had his teeth polished.

Hootman—Yes, yes!

McTavish—Gaid! Help me open it up—there's a nice cool breeze blowing and the confounded window sticks.

"Could you give a poor fellow a bite?" asked the dust-stained tramp.

"I don't bite, myself," answered the lady of the house, "but I'll call the dog."

"Ve Don'd Own It"

YEARS ago there went the rounds an illustrated joke picturing two Hebrew gentlemen standing on the deck of a storm-tossed liner which bore every appearance of imminent sinking.

"Ikey," said one, "I think the ship is sinking."

"Vat do ve care?" replied the other with utter nonchalance, "ve don'd own it."

One is reminded by almost daily experience of these two gentlemen. Go where you will and make any reference to business and you will find someone who will open up and tell how bad business is, how far away probable recovery is, and the poor success all efforts to turn the tide are meeting. Then will follow a detailed account of the firms that have gone out of business, of the men who are being laid off, of cases of individual distress. Some of these stories may be true, some, as Mark Twain said of the story of his death, greatly exaggerated, and some made out of whole cloth.

Then the narrator will put his hands in his pockets and go off whistling cheerfully. He doesn't seem to be any more concerned than the Hebrew gentleman was. It never occurs to him that "we are all in the same boat."

As a matter of fact his attitude is a lot more absurd, for the Hebrew gentleman's remark could have no effect on what happened to the ship. It would sink, or it would float, regardless of him. But every direful story and prediction does have a great deal of effect on business conditions, for business conditions are dependent on the psychological attitude of those who do business, more than upon almost anything else.

As time goes on and events unfold, the suspicion grows that Herbert Hoover is an honest man rather than a skillful politician. This is indicated more clearly, perhaps, by the attitude towards him of certain adroit politicians and business men. Honest people are finding a certain degree of assurance merely from the source whence comes opposition.

This does not mean that one always agrees with Mr. Hoover's attitude on any given subject. But the observant citizen feels more and more that our present chief executive is acting like an upstanding man who believes in something and is willing to stand by it, rather than like one of those continually prone individuals who fears always to take his ear from the ground.

It is natural that the President should meet with opposition from the other party, but day by day the wily listeners of his own party who throw obstacles in his way—for instance, as those who are blocking the investigation into law enforcement—appear more and more like the man who said, "Vat do ve care, ve don'd own it."

Of course it is rather a surprise for this country to have a statesman who takes the position of a scientific engineer instead of that of a sort of glorified poker player. The scientist goes after the truth, and attempts to act in accordance with it regardless of the toes trod on. That attitude is rather new to us.

Is not the real difference between a statesman and a politician, that the former is an expert at doing the job, while the latter is merely an expert at getting the job?

Here and There

Alfred C. Cobb is retiring after holding his position in the manual training department of the Arlington Public Schools for thirty-six years. The strange part of it is that even after all these years he does not want to retire, but he is forced to do so by law, nevertheless. You see, he has passed his seventieth year, and according to the state, after a man is seventy years old he is no longer capable of teaching.

Of course, everyone knows that he is as good a teacher now as he ever was. Some people do not agree very rapidly, and Mr. Cobb is one of them. The late C. S. Parker continued to manage and edit this paper for more than fifteen years after he passed his seventieth birthday, and it was in his later years that he was most successful. But those things make no difference to a law. Mr. Cobb is seventy years old and he is all through.

But Mr. Cobb will certainly have the last laugh on the State School Department, for he is a long way from being all through. In fact, he now fully expects to set up a furniture repairing business for himself. One would think that such a venture would take a lot of courage in a man so well along in years, but the retiring teacher is a young man still. In spite of his age, and he knows it. Hats off to Mr. Cobb!

Several people have already taken their hats off to him. A number of his old pupils are getting up a purse for him, just to show their appreciation for what he has done for them and the town. His first gift was from his last class, and since then checks have been coming in from older pupils. Horatio A. Phinney heads the list with a very substantial tribute. All these gifts will make it more possible for Mr. Cobb to render the seventy-year old a laughing stock. This is one time when it becomes a laudable ambition to make a joke of a law.

A very interesting letter written by A. Alexander Magoun of Watertown appeared in the Boston Transcript a short time ago. To quote it in part:—"A teacher is usually a better teacher after she is married (and that applies equally well to the men). In the first place, she is ready to settle down to business and is not thinking about what to wear to tomorrow evening's dance, leaving Willie to bedevil fractions at his desk. What is much more important, she is living a more adequate life, is more emotionally stable, and better fitted to understand other people—child or parent. In the third place she is usually teaching for the love of teaching, not just to keep the wolf from the apartment elevator."

"If we fire married teachers, such mothers as Dorothy Canfield Fisher and Mary Roberts Rinehart should be restrained from writing books by act of Congress. Those who have both written books and stood at the classroom blackboard understand how much more concentration and uninterrupted time writing demands. Back to the sink and the stove with our intellectual women. Let them typewrite with one hand if they can, while the other scrapes carrots. If the married women are good teachers (and many are) let them teach! Legislating against them will accomplish about as much in the end as did the acts of Parliament lobbied in the early 1800s by the stage drivers who attempted to kill the locomotive and to keep the horse."

If Mr. Magoun has not already made it clear, he means that he thinks that a law preventing married women from teaching is just silly—just another farce. There is absolute truth in what he says, too. Now where does Arlington stand on the subject? That is a question very easy to ask but one which is more difficult to answer. It seems to be a fact that there is discrimination against married teachers in Arlington. It is also obvious to those who are on the inside that that word discrimination is an excellent one used in that particular place.

It is the truth that there are some married teachers working in the Arlington schools. It is also true that some teachers have been discharged because they have had the courage to get married. All this makes it very difficult to determine Arlington's policy except that it is discriminatory.

Calling a person discriminating is a compliment, of course. To call the school department discriminating is also a compliment. It means that those in authority are extremely careful whom they allow to teach our young. That is the right idea all right, especially when applied to married women. Even if a lady is a perfectly good teacher before she is married, during the metamorphosis of holy wedlock she may become an entirely different person. She may render herself totally unfit to teach.

Formerly her mind might have been on what she was going to wear at the dance that night or just what she will say to Jim if he pulls that out-of-gas stunt again. But now Jim is her husband and she is wondering how he is going to pay for that gas. She is wondering how on earth she is to think of a different desert for tonight's dinner. Yes, indeed, one must be very careful about married women—especially the young ones. There certainly should be careful discrimination.

tion. But, as the Watertown man said, after a married lady has reached the age of discretion and she is a good teacher, why not let her teach?

The commemorative booklet, called "A Panorama of Arlington's Tercentenary," is a comprehensive job. That is a peculiarly fortunate choice of words. That word "job" is very expressive. But, as one of our pressmen remarked, "It only comes every three hundred years, and we will not have to worry about the next one." Believe it or not, the books are actually on the newsstands today. Better have a look at one. Your picture might be in it, and you do not want to miss that.

It looks as though the Advocate had lost out in its fight for plan "C" for the new high school unit. As was remarked last week, "The Town Goes 'No'." But we shall try to be good losers and hope for the best. The opposition probably has something good up its sleeve. Let's hope that it has anyway, for shanting it all, we must have additional high school accommodations. We do not care who presents the plan as long as it is one to cope with the situation.

It does look, however, as though the "knows" would get themselves into a few gallons of hot water before they are through. The thing comes up at the town meeting which the Selectmen have called for Tuesday, July 15. Let us hope that we get a quorum in the first place and something done in the second place. But what is the opposition going to do? Will the leaders present rough plans and equally rough estimates for additional class room space? Or will they ask for an additional appropriation of $100,000 for more accurate plans and estimates to be presented in the fall? In any case, how are we going to accomplish anything in time to avoid a two-platoon system at the high school for a couple of years? Perhaps the "knows" can answer that one. Sophistication is not my strong point this week.

SOPHISTICATED ONLOOKER.

Fifty Years Ago This Week

Another Vacant Pulpit
Death of J. Lewis Merrill of Arlington

Although the long illness and of late rapidly increasing weakness of the pastor of the Orthodox church had convinced all that his labors were ended, not one imagined but what some weeks, if not months of life were left for him, and so when the news passed from lip to lip last Sunday morning that Rev. J. Lewis Merrill was dead, everyone was greatly surprised.

Anniversary.—The sixty-second anniversary of the formation of the Baptist Sunday School was celebrated last Sunday afternoon, with highly appropriate and very pleasing exercises in the church at half past four o'clock. The exercises opened with singing by the school and scripture readings by Miss Helen E. Crosby. Music was furnished by the school, assisted by the choir and a male quartet, composed of Messrs. Wood, Rawson, Cox and Allen. Mr. Rawson and Miss Hattie Swan having solos.

Messrs. Hewes and Schouler, census enumerators for Arlington, have completed their labors near enough to give the population—4,100. In 1870 it was 3,261; in 1875 (state census), 3,906.

Drouth still continues. The shower of last Sunday was very refreshing, but unless we have a soaking rain the second crop of grass will not amount to very much.

Lawn Party.—The residence of Mr. John T. White, on Park avenue, was the scene of a brilliant lawn party, last Wednesday evening. The grounds were tastefully decorated with Chinese lanterns, etc. Readings by Miss Catherine E. Mills, with music and dancing, filled up the evening charmingly.

IN 1905

Twenty-five Years Ago This Week
Arlington Boat Club will entertain its members and friends with its annual fireworks display and band concert at the club house on Spy Pond. The fireworks will be set off from a float in front of the club and the banks of the pond will afford plenty of room for all who wish to witness this Fourth of July demonstration.

We go to press with the Advocate at noon on Friday of each week, that all may be sure of receiving papers Saturday morning at least. In consequence we cannot announce what disposition the Board of Health will make of house offal for the coming year as the announcement by the Board was that "at 8 o'clock, Friday, June 30th, bids will be opened and publicly read." We shall be able to announce next week what effect past expression of the will of the people and more recent illustration of what they intend to do when they have a chance, has had on the Board, by its formal action on this will business. At the bar of public opinion the breeding of swine has been adjudged a nuisance. The swill with which swine are fed is no small ingredient in the nuisance created.

Caterer N. J. Hardy's cares and responsibilities were overwhelming on Harvard Class Day, and included the "feeding" and serving of thousands of people at the large fraternity spreads. The dog day weather and his overwork resulted in his complete prostration toward evening and he had to be cared for by a physician and sent to his Arlington home.

There have been two hundred applications for houses and tenements at the Heights this spring and the agents have in no wise been able to supply. In fact we are told there is nothing to be let here. Just think what a boom to real estate and taxable property this would have been had somebody built houses to supply this demand.

Arlington Advocate,
Arlington, Mass.
Dear Editor:

The letter of Mr. Walter T. Bartholemey of June 16, as published in last week's Advocate, should receive the attention and approval at once of the Planning Board. In my remarks at Town Meeting in opposition to the proposed half a million dollar extension of Warren street across the "Bog" to Mystic street, I suggested the extension of Chestnut street across a corner of the Clark stables in to Winslow street, cut across the Peirce and Winn coal yard and turn left and form a traffic circle in the vicinity of the B. & M. Station, compel all coming in to that part of the town to use the traffic circle. Circle could be arranged to hook up with travel from Pleasant and Mystic streets, make Mill street one way from Massachusetts avenue. Suggest the State build as a Park way from Alewife Parkway on the right of the Mystic Drive to Medford street.

It would improve traffic conditions on Mystic Valley Parkway and tend towards safer driving and educate many that go through Arlington Centre to use the Park way. Those opposed to Warren street extension were interested in the result of the recent vote by those that did not favor the High School expense. Does the Planning Board still advocate Warren street extension? If so, would suggest a vote by the citizens.

Arlington Advocate,
Arlington, Mass.

To the Editor,
Dear Sir:

May a newcomer to Arlington inquire through your paper why there is parking allowed on Massachusetts avenue between Medford street and Mystic street, and absolutely no parking allowed on either side of Academy street between Massachusetts avenue and Maple street.

Will you kindly print the names of the persons who have charge of making the rules for parking, so that those of us who desire to help may make our suggestions direct to the proper persons?

Thanks!
Very truly yours,
PHILIP MENDEL.

WILL COME TO ORTHODOX CHURCH NEXT SEPTEMBER

Rev. Lawrence L. Barber, who has accepted the call from the Orthodox Congregational church, plans to leave the Plymouth Congregational church of Nashua, N. H., his present pastorate, on the 15th of September and to take up his Arlington duties on the twenty-first. His letter of acceptance follows: Orthodox Congregational Church, Arlington, Mass.

"My dear Friends:
"The unanimous invitation of your church to its pastorate has been receiving from me the most careful and serious consideration. It is a matter of the greatest importance to us both. You have asked me to leave a most happy field of labor where for the last twelve years the relationships have been unusually harmonious. I find that the roots of this relationship were very deep. On the other hand your historic church with its past leadership and its present demands, makes your choice of your leader for the coming days a matter of the very greatest importance.

"When your Committee first came to me, I was most favorably impressed by their open, fair and friendly approach. That impression has only increased during the later interviews. The experiences of the Sunday which Mrs. Barber and I spent in Arlington were most delightful. We found the church people (as we had previously found the Committee) exceedingly friendly and cordial; the day was made most pleasant for us both. Since that time several of your families have shown us unusual acts of gracious courtesy and helpfulness.

"I am not blind to the tasks involved and the problems to be met in the coming days, yet increasingly I have felt that with the united support of your church, so splendidly revealed in your unanimous invitation, we can together do a great work 'thru Christ who strengthens us'.
"Therefore, I am hereby accepting, with a due sense of responsibility and also of appreciation, your call to the Pastorate. I have already presented my resignation to Pilgrim Church, asking that it shall be effective September 15, 1930. I am now planning to begin my work with you on Sunday, September 21, 1930. Meanwhile, may it be our united prayer that our Heavenly Father may richly bless us in this new relationship and wisely lead us into an increasing service, happy and rich in blessing for the coming days."

Your Pastor-Elect,
LAURENCE LUTHER BARBER.

of teachers come and go. He has always been rather quiet and retiring, never entering a great deal into public affairs, but in organizations in which he is interested he is a great worker. He is a member of the Pejepscott Lodge of Odd Fellows at Brunswick, Maine, and is the oldest Past Grand Master in point of service. He is also a member of the Grand Lodge of the State of Maine.

In Arlington his public interest has been in the Orthodox Congregational church. He has had a number of offices in that body, including that of superintendent of the Sunday School. He has been and is at the present time a deacon.

When asked what his hobbies were, Mr. Cobb mentioned several. He said that he had built several motor boats in the past. When photography first became popular he spent a great deal of time with that. Later, the radio occupied his attention and before the industry became a real industry he built several sets.

The Wireless Club

The development of his interest in radio makes an interesting story. When Marconi developed the wireless, Mr. Cobb would not allow himself to become very much interested for he knew that if he did, most of his time would be spent on it. Shortly after the introduction of the radio, however, Brad Swift, who was then principal of the Junior High School, came to Mr. Cobb and asked him to start a wireless club. Mr. Cobb said that he knew nothing at all about wireless, and thought that had ended the matter.

Some time after that a youngster came to him and asked when the wireless club was to start. Mr. Cobb then found that Mr. Swift had told the boys that a club was to be started regardless of the fact that the teacher had claimed no knowledge at all. As a matter of fact, Mr. Cobb and the boys did build a crystal set and had it in operation before there was any real broadcasting.

The teacher, himself, heard the first spoken word over the radio in his life on this set. He was tinkering with it one day when he heard someone saying "Hello, Hello". He thought for a minute that it was someone behind him, but later he learned that he had heard one of the instructors at Tufts College who was experimenting with a broadcasting set, one of the first in these parts.

Wood-Working His Hobby

Mr. Cobb said that if he were to speak the absolute truth, wood-working is his real hobby. Mathematics was always his strongest choloistic point, and he should have continued with that subject. When he started studying the methods of teaching manual training in the Waltham schools, he had an equally good opportunity of taking a teachers' course in mathematics. He thinks now that he chose the wrong line. Mathematics should have been his business and woodworking his hobby.

Because of his position in the post office of Brunswick, Mr. Cobb could say with truth that he knew practically everyone there. When he came to Waltham he knew just one man, but it was not long before he had accumulated a wide circle of friends. His move to Arlington was even worse as far as sociability was concerned, for he did not know a single person. Today, however, it may be truthfully said that he knows as many of his fellow citizens as any other one person.

Mr. Cobb has been twice married. His first wife, Annie L. Rich of Rockland, Maine, whom he married in 1884, passed away about two years ago. A year later he married Bertha M. Shaw. "Never," said Mr. Cobb, "has a man been blessed with two finer women. I was very happy with my first wife for forty-five years, and I am very happy now."

CANDIDACY TO STATE SENATE

Hon. Edwin T. McKnight, former president of the State Senate, yesterday announced his candidacy for the republican nomination to the State Senate from the sixth Middlesex senatorial district. Mr. McKnight was president of the Senate in 1919 and 1920. Previous to that he had served two years in the same body, where he had served on the committee on banks and banking and other important committees.

UNKNOWN THIEF STEALS
TWO CHRYSLER TAIL-LIGHTS

Sunday night there were two peculiar thefts reported to the local police. In each case the tail-light had been stolen from a Chrysler car and the number plate left where the owner could find it. The thief evidently was making a collection of Chrysler tail lights but was wise enough to get rid of the incriminating evidence.

The first case was reported at 11:30 p. m. by Fred Curry of 53 Appleton street. The tail light had been stolen from his car while it was parked before his door and the number plate was left in the front seat.

Ten minutes later F. William Schwabe of 161 Highland avenue called and reported a similar theft from a visitor's car while parked in front of his house. In this case the number plate was left on the running board. The victim was A. T. Henry of Cambridge.

OFFICER KEANEY HURT
IN FALL WITH MOTORCYCLE

Motorcycle Officer Keaney of the local Police Department, has been absent from the streets for the past week because of injuries he received when he fell with his motorcycle last Saturday night at the corner of Chandler street and Massachusetts avenue.

Keaney was on an emergency call and was racing down Massachusetts avenue when, according to his story, a car operated by Stanley M. Whitman of the Heights suddenly turned left in front of him. In slamming on the brakes to avoid a collision, Keaney fell with the motorcycle.

He came back to the station and was given first aid treatment by Sergeant Jacobs for various cuts and bruises and then went back and finished out the night. Later, however, his injuries proved painful, and he has been recuperating for a week. It is expected that he will be back on duty shortly.

NO HOPE YET FOR FEDERAL BUILDING

As he was instructed at one of the last meetings of the Arlington Chamber of Commerce, R. J. Peters, the secretary, wrote to Congressman Dallinger to inquire the chances for a Federal Building in Arlington. The Congressman replied as follows:

May 22, 1930

"Dear Mr. Peters: I am in receipt of your letter of the 20th inst. relative to the desirability of constructing a federal building for the post office in Arlington. I regret exceedingly to say that the prospect of action in this direction at the present time is not encouraging.

"As you know, it is the policy of the Government to construct buildings for first class post offices only. I was successful, however, in securing an allotment of $755,000 for a site and building for Cambridge in the recent budget estimate for new buildings. This was because Cambridge, the seat of Harvard University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology and other institutions of learning, was the only large college town in the country without a government building and also because it is the county seat of one of the most populous counties in the country, with postal receipts of over $1,000,000 annually.

"The budget estimate does not contain any appropriation for Arlington and in view of the large sum to be expended in Boston and the allotment for Cambridge, it is very improbable that more money will be available for the eastern part of Massachusetts for some time to come.

Furthermore, I recently succeeded in securing a branch post office in East Arlington which should be very helpful in improving the service there. Because of the Department's recent action I believe that it would be inadvisable for me to take the Arlington matter up again until next fall.

"Assuring you that I shall be pleased to hear from you at any time and with kindest regards, I am

Very sincerely yours,

FRED'K W. DALLINGER.

"P. S. I hope to be able in the near future to be able to have Cambridge divorced from the Boston postal district and made an independent first class post office. If I am successful it will be very much easier to obtain more adequate facilities for Arlington and other places similarly situated."

HANLEY-CONNOLLY

The wedding of Miss Marguerite Maud Connolly, the daughter of A. J. Connolly of 70 Norfolk road, and Albert Joseph Hanley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hanley of 79 Jewett street, Newton, took place last Saturday morning in St. Agnes church. Rev. Joseph T. Lawless of Cohasset performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Joseph H. Shortell of Newtonville, a Simmons College graduate, as matron of honor and by two bridesmaids—Miss Muriel and Miss Lucille Gauthier of Montreal, cousins of the bride and graduates of the Convent of Notre Dame, Montreal. The flower girl was Betty Hurley of Cambridge and Thomas Kampton Shortell and Joseph Henry Shortell, Jr., of Newtonville, twin sons of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Shortell, were train bearers.

Frank Hanley of Newton, brother of the groom and a graduate of Boston College, acted as best man. The ushers were Harold Deherty of Newtonville, a Harvard University graduate, and Robert Malloy of Providence, R. I., a Brown University man.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast and reception. Mrs. Hanley is a graduate of Marycliff Academy and of Miss Michael's School and has studied at McGill University and the New England Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Hanley is a member of the class of 1921 of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He also studied at the University of New York. He was a professor at St. Mary's College at Emmetsburg, Md., for five years and is now a chemical engineer with a Providence, R. I., company.

After a wedding trip by automobile the young couple will make their home at 184 Bluff avenue, Edgewood, R. I.

CURRY-HARRIS

The marriage of Miss Margaret G. Harris, the daughter of Mrs. Sarah M. Harris of 18 Palmer street, and John J. Curry, the son of John Curry of 101 Antrim street, Cambridge, took place Wednesday morning at eight. St. Agnes church, where the single ring ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, Rev. William J. McCarthy, pastor of St. Bridget's church, Lexington, was decorated with palms, butterfly roses and baby's breath. The music was by Joseph Ecker, baritone, and Miss Emma Ecker, organist.

ELECTROLUX

IS THE
ONLY AUTOMATIC REFRIGERATOR
that has No Moving Parts to make noise

Imagine an automatic refrigerator that makes no sound, has no moving parts—not a speck of machinery, needs no attention, yet endlessly produces constant, steady cold. It certainly sounds magical. But it's true.

Once you light the tiny flame, you have plenty of pure sparkling ice cubes, a constant, evenly low food temperature, the rest of your life. Science can find no good reason why this refrigerator should ever wear out. It's so simple. Nothing to it but a and a liquid refrigerant that is circulated by heat. The refrigerant cannot leak and it never needs replacement, for it is sealed forever inside a solid one-piece steel unit. And all this convenience, all these advantages, are yours at less than the cost of old-fashioned refrigeration.

It is a means of saving money.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S GUILD OUTING AT SUNSET POINT

Last Saturday a large number of the members and their children of St. James Branch of the Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild went on an outing to the Vacation House for Children at Sunset Point, Hull, which is run by the Catholic Charitable Bureau. There they met the other Branches which were well represented by members with their children, making a gathering of about 200. Fr. O'Connor, past director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau, and his successor, Fr. Reynolds, were guests. The latter was presented with a check for a large amount by Miss McIntyre, State Regent, to help defray the expenses of the Vacation House for children who otherwise would be deprived of such a healthful change. The priests addressed the women and thanked them for their generosity and helpfulness to charity.

Games, etc., were participated in by the various branches. One of the most unique sketches was carried out by the Whitman women who entered the spacious hall dressed in costumes of the Gay Nineties and playing popular tunes on all sorts of household utensils. They received many encores and responded with songs and dances around the hall. Another which found favor was the Amos and Andy sketch contributed by two young women from Brockton. Mrs. Kedjian of the local branch was a real prize winner. Most spectacular was her speed in hanging and removing a line of "family washing". Miss Alice Leary was the other prize winner from the Arlington Branch.

Refreshments were served with the box lunches brought by the women and balloons distributed. The entertainment was then continued until early in the evening when the members left for home happily after a day of merriment and renewed acquaintances with women from other districts—all looking forward to another good time of that nature next year.

Last Friday morning two hundred and ninety-five young people received their diplomas from the three junior high schools of the town, in the presence of friends and relatives who filled the auditoriums where the exercises were held. In every school the scene was a joyful and pretty one—a happy occasion for the graduates themselves and for their friends.

Junior High West

Because its own auditorium was too small to accommodate those who wished to attend the exercises of Junior High West—as has been customary for several years—were held in the Senior High School auditorium. The Junior High West orchestra played selections at the opening of the program and "Concentric March", which the members of the graduating class took their places. Rev. Reuben J. Davis, pastor of the Heights Baptist church, was introduced by Principal Franklin P. Hawkes, Ph.D., and pronounced the Invocation, and Laurin Colby Phinney, president of the class, welcomed the audience on behalf of his classmates.

"Columbia in Retrospect"

The class paid its tribute to the Tercentenary in a pageant, "Columbia in Retrospect", effectively staged and well acted. This opened with the poem, "Columbus", recited by Harvey Robinson, which was followed by the song, "The Landing of the Pilgrims" by the chorus and Columbia by Rachel Moore.

The Pilgrims were portrayed by Edward Tate and Jean Simpson as "Governor John Carver and Wife"; Edmund Page and Edward Dale, "Governor William Bradford and Massasoit"; Kenneth Troy and Dorothea Homer, "William Brewster and Wife"; Ernest Poole, Alice Cutter and Eva MacDonald, "Edward Winslow, Wife and Daughter"; and Harry Kaplan, "Captain Myles Standish". This episode closed with the singing of the hymn, "O God, Beneath Thy Guiding Hand", by the chorus.

As Puritans there appeared Murray Roberts, Dorothy Richardson and Catherine Gallagher as "Governor John Winthrop, Wife and Daughter"; Joseph O'Sullivan, "Rev. John Davenport"; James Colgan, "Rev. William Blackstone"; Dorothy Woodward, "Mrs. Anne Pollard"; Edmund Greco and James Pierce, "John Elliott and an Indian"; Robert Sessler, "Rev. John Cotton"; Paul Hendrick and Barbara Galignan, "John Endicott and Wife"; Joseph Gibbons, "Roger Williams"; and Alice Brenton, "Anne Hutchinson". The chorus brought the pageant to a fitting end with the singing of "America".

Friday Social Club Awards

After the orchestra had played, "Intermezzo" from L'Arlesienne Suite", by Bizet, came the presentation of awards. These awards, as it was explained by Mrs. H. H. Lester, to whom falls the honor of making the presentations annually, since it was during her presidency that the idea originated, are made by the Friday Social Club on the basis of scholarship and character. The boy and the girl who have had the highest scholarship rating during their three years in the school receive fifteen dollars in gold alpiece. Like sums are given to the "ideal boy and girl". These are chosen by the votes of the teachers taken every two months throughout the three years.

This year Mrs. Lester gave the scholarship prizes to Carl V. Moberg and Phyllis E. Lamothe and the character prizes to Laurin Colby Phinney and Alice Jean Kirsis. The gold was accompanied by decorative certificates on which were engraved the names of the recipients and which were signed by the principal of the school and the president of the Friday Social Club.

The chorus then sang "The Song and the Breeze" by Dvorak and Dr. Denis A. McCarthy presented the diplomas. Dr. McCarthy needed no introduction as he is not only a member of the school committee but is also a neighbor of the school and has always taken an active interest in it. He expressed his pleasure in the occasion before making the presentation. After the chorus had sung the Junior High School Song the orchestra played the closing march, "Our National Honor" by Brooks.

The class has presented to the school a set of forty pictures by J. L. G. Ferris, entitled "The Pageant of a Nation", for use in the Library and Social Studies classes. Besides the president the officers are, vice-president, Jennie Snow; secretary, Elaine A. Norwood, and treasurer, Clara Evelyn Buckley.

CLIPPING GIVES DOGS HOT WEATHER COMFORT

Probably no animal suffers more from hot weather than the long haired dog. Its usefulness is greatly impaired unless its overheated condition is relieved. Long hair accumulates dirt, and is a good breeding place for fleas. Clipping provides comfort for the pet.

At the Concordia Kennels in Concord, dogs are clipped with electric clippers. This can be done in a short time so that it does not necessitate a trip back to call for the dog. Heated rooms also are provided for washing dogs, and gas heaters for heating the water, so that the animals receive the most careful attention.

Mr. Carruth, who operates the Kennels, has had seventeen years experience in the care of dogs. He especially recommends that dogs be clipped during the warm weather to avoid sickness from overheating, and that special care be taken in preparing food for them. Too often illness in our pets results from over-eating, far more than from under-eating, and this is particularly true in hot weather. A well-balanced ration is also important for the well-being of dogs.

The kennels at the Concordia are large, airy and sanitary and the outdoor runs provide opportunity for ample exercise. It is an ideal place for pets to be boarded during vacation time, and no fear need be entertained as to the care taken, as it is equipped to prepare dog foods in the kitchens under the most sanitary conditions.

HAVE WALTER CLIFFORD INSPECT YOUR CAR NOW

There is one habit more than any other that costs motorists millions every year and results in the loss of life in automobile accidents. And that habit is neglect of the automobile.

The average car owner is too proud to have his car inspected and think of all his car needs are in the past. Then when brakes fail, or the motor lacks power to pull rapidly around the slow driver, when a car is coming in the opposite direction, the need for repairs is brought forcibly home to the car owner.

That you drive hard and that in a few months the car will be as bad as ever are no excuses, for if repairs are once made, of course the period of safety and of efficiency is lengthened that much.

It isn't worth while to take the gamble. Drive your car to Walter Clifford's garage, 7 Park blvd., and have him inspect it, tell you what it needs and make the necessary repairs. Whatever the trouble it will be fixed and you will be more than ever pleased with the car's performance after it has had a "doctoring" by Walter Clifford. He makes a flat rate charge on all work.

Mr. Clifford specializes in valve grinding and has the tools to do that work on the largest commercial or pleasure vehicles. He has a Black & Decker valve grinding outfit with several hundred dollars worth of grinding and re-setting tools.

He is also an expert on all types of gas engines. During the war he was instructor at the Mass. School of Technology in the aviation unit and later was employed for four years as an instructor at the K. of C. evening school in Boston. Ignition and generator work is another specialty of Mr. Clifford. He has a complete library on automotive work, which eliminates all guess work as to the charge for different types of generators.

ON A HOT DAY COOL OFF AT DELUXE SPA FOUNTAIN

The De Luxe Spa, Massachusetts avenue, corner Park Avenue, has for years been a haven in the summertime for those people who desire to cool off a bit after a strenuous day's work. Fine, clear, cool drinks and delightful home-made ice cream always ready at the fountain is the reason for its popularity. In the summer when one is hot and thirsty there is nothing more pleasant than a drink of ice cream soda, with just the right taste that cuts that dry feeling and gives vigor.

For those who feel the need of more than ice cream or liquid refreshment, lunches are served at all hours.

The De Luxe Spa makes its own ice cream, which is known for its health qualities. It is made only of the best ingredients, by experts with years of experience, and the most approved methods are employed in handling.
